

The signing of the declaration of intent between Mozambique and the Lowveld Liason Committee (Repmosa) at Inhaca Island last week is the start of many things to come. That is the view of Repmosa chairman Mr Johnny Henn, Komatipoort's mayor and wealthy Lowveld farmer. He said a similar agricultural agreement would be signed at Maputo next month. 'That will involve the development of 8 000ha of irrigated farmland and we are expecting lots of SA participation', Mr Henn said.
