

PRESIDENT Joaquim Chissano of Mozambique said that he was under pressure from foreign governments to agree to a power-sharing deal ahead of October's multi-party elections. His ruling Frelimo party fought a 16-year civil war with the Renamo movement.