

MOZAMBIQUE: European assistance for the fisheries sector

The EEC has decided to give aid worth 2.75 million ECU to Mozambique in order to help make up for the shortage of senior and middle-level staff in the fisheries sector. The money will go to cover the cost of twelve experts who will be attached to the secretariat of state for fisheries to reorganise the sector. This programme will centre on the decentralisation of the management of production activities and the strengthening of central technical coordination structures.
