

Mozambique Says It Downed Jet

MAPUTO, Mozambique, May 30 (Reuters) — An unidentified jet was shot down today over Mozambique's capital of Maputo, the official press agency reported. It said the plane, downed by antiaircraft fire, fell into the bay by capital.

The reported incident took place a week after South African jets raided bases in Mozambique of the African National Congress, which took responsibility for a bomb attack on air force headquarters in Pretoria earlier this month.

The press agency said the jet was detected when it was over the district of Moamba, which borders on South Africa. It said that shortly after the incident a second plane entered Mozambique's airspace.
