MAPUTO. — Bandits killed 22 people in an attack on a train in southern Mozambique on New Year's Eve, according to the official news agency AIM.

The train hit a mine near Pessene about 35 km north-west of Maputo on the line from the South African border town of Komatipoort. AIM reported on Friday evening that the explosion derailed part of the train and MNR bandits attacked, killing people and looting their possessions. — Ziana-Reuters.
