

MNR sabotage

MAPUTO — The Mozambique National Resistance Movement (MNR) has again sabotaged the transmission lines carrying power from South Africa to Mozambique's capital Maputo. The sabotage occurred last Thursday somewhere between the frontier post of Ressano Garcia and Moamba town, about 30 km east of the South African border. This is the second time in less than a week that the power lines to Maputo have come under attack. Maputo is currently obtaining electricity supplies from its back-up coal-and-oil-fired power station. — Ziana-Xin-
