[Text] Zambia's contribution in the training of Mozambique's Frelimo soldiers is a humble one toward the overall development of Frontline States which face South Africa.

Army Commander Lieutenant General Gary Kalenge said this today at a passout parade of 583 Mozambican troops at Mutonga, in Mukushi District. Comrade Kalenge, who is also a member of the Central Committee, said the Southern Africa Development Coordinating Conference, SADCC, was primarily created for Frontline States to lessen their dependence on South Africa in all fields. Comrade Kalenge told the soldiers that the Zambia Army would always be prepared to carry out training [word indistinct] to assist its neighbors whenever resources permitted.
