

Latest evidence on South African role

Three captured MNR bandits, Orlando Matavele, Joaquim Cuna, and Jonisse Matavele, were presented at a meeting in the village of Tihovepe, presided over by the Administrator of Massingir district, Antonio Djedje. Massingir is one of the districts of Gaza province that borders on the South African province of the Transvaal. Replying to questions from the crowd, the three said that they had received military training in South Africa from what they described as "Boer instructors". Last year, they said, the South Africans had taken them to the border with Mozambique so that they could operate in Gaza province, where they were later captured by the Mozambican Armed Forces.
