MAPUTO. — Holland and Sweden have contributed $700 000 (R2,8 million) to the United Nations-managed trust fund set up to help the Renamo movement transform itself from a military movement into a political organisation, the Dutch embassy announced.

This this was the first half of payments promised under agreements signed with the UN last year.

The only other country that has contributed to the fund is Italy, which provided $5,8 million. (R19,72 million) The Fund's target is $10 million (R34 million).
