

Mozambique's denial of S African press report on corruption (Text) A spokesman of the PRM Government has told 'Noticias' newspaper that the Mozambican state does not operate on the basis of corruption. This statement was made following reports circulated by the South African press according to which the Mozambican Government has corrupted political and public figures in Portugal. The newspaper 'O Seculo' which is produced in South Africa, recently published a false report by the Pretoria regime's secret services, BOSS, which contained those monstrous lies and slanders. The same spokesman added that the bogus report published in the South African press was a BOSS move to denigrate the relations of friendship and fraternity between Portugal and Mozambique.
