

SA attacks on rise — Chissano

4.13/4/88 MAPUTO.

MOZAMBICAN President Joaquim Chissano told his Rwandan counterpart Juvenal Habyarimana on Monday night that his visit to Mozambique "comes at a time when the apartheid regime is stepping up its aggression and destabilisation against the Frontline States, and particularly against Angola and Mozambique".

Speaking at a banquet in honour of the Rwandan leader, Cde Chissano said that the main instrument used by South Africa in its undeclared war against Mozambique were the MNR bandits.

As a result of South African destabilisation and of natural disasters "today more than five million Mozambicans are in an emergency situation, surviving thanks to donations from the international community".
