[Text] A South African delegation arrived in Maputo this morning to pay homage, at its request, to Louis Trichardt on the occasion of the 150th anniversary of his death. A monument was erected in his honor in Maputo in 1968. The South African delegation is led by Foreign Minister Roelof Botha, and includes Minister of Public Works Pietie du Plessis and Deputy Foreign Minister Jacobus Meiring, among other officials. The South African delegation was welcomed at Maputo International Airport by Cooperation Minister Jacinto Veloso and Geraldo Cherindza, chief of the Africa Division in the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

Also today, Roelof Botha will officially open the new building of the South African Trade Mission office in Maputo.
