

Mozambique: South African journalist released from police detention     (Text) The South African journalist, Nelis Greyling, who has been held by the Mozambican police in Maputo for several months, has been released. Greyling is now under the protection of the UN High Commissioner for Refugees. Our Pretoria staff quotes a Foreign Affairs spokesman as saying that Greyling was released very recently. He left South Africa last December. (Johannesburg home service in English 0900 gmt 21 Apr 89)
