

Nelson Mandela addresses official ceremony in Mozambique (ME/0817 ii) ANC Deputy President Nelson Mandela was in Maputo on the afternoon of 15th July for talks with Joaquim Chissano, according to a Radio Mozambique (Maputo) report of the same day. Speaking at an official ceremony, Mandela said that the fact that Mozambique was the last country for him to visit on his tour of three continents "demonstrated that the ANC feels more at home there than anywhere else", and that there was "little wonder" that the ANC had played a "pivotal role" in the establishment of Frelimo. After the independence of Mozambique, he said, the spirits of his people were "uplifted by the knowledge that never again would white arrogance find fertile ground on African soil". 1990
