[Text] President Joaquim Chissano has expressed the desire to see relations of friendship and cooperation between Britain and Mozambique becoming stronger and consolidated. This is contained in a message from President Chissano to Britain's Queen Elizabeth II and to Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher on the occasion of Britain's national day.

The Mozambican head of state said that, on this occasion, joint efforts by the Governments of Britain and Mozambique in combatting terrorism [words indistinct] in southern Africa and in Mozambique in particular are being (?remembered).
