

UK aid to help Mozambican refugees (Excerpts)

Mozambicans, who have fled to neighbouring countries to escape the terrorist activities of the MNR bandits, will benefit from a new aid allocation offered by the British Government. The aid amounts to 4m pounds. The bulk of the money is to be channelled through the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees, and a small portion will go to non-governmental agencies to be used for the purchase of blankets, clothing and other essential items. . . (Maputo in English for abroad 1800 gmt 28 Oct 88)